Subject: Clarification on Pricing.

Natanya,

Please see attached notes indexed to the line items in question:

Note #1: Based on provided specifications, and in consideration of the two preceding line items ( 8-26 & 8-27), after consultation with material suppliers and installing subcontractor, we believe our bid price to be accurate.

Note #2: (refer to note #1) we believe our bid price to be accurate.

Note #3 In referencing the FDOT specification as a concrete structure with cast iron grate of unspecified size, we have determined that our bid price is accurate for a small yard drain installation. Larger yard drain installations could require a premium.

Note #4: Please review the bidding subcontractors note, repeated here verbatim;

In March of 2015, Broward County elected to upgrade their sign standards to meet 150MPH wind design and required Diamond Grade Type XI sheeting on all their sign panels. There is only 1 manufacturer of those post assemblies. They hold a monopoly. So these sign post assemblies are very expensive in comparison to the previous sign installation requirements.

Additionally, the diamond grade Type XI sheeting is 2-3 times more expensive than the previous High Intensive sheeting that was utilized.

Consider that the stop signs with street name panels require 5 sign panels plus the triangular slip base assembly to meet the 150MPH design standard for Broward Co.

They could have adopted the existing FDOT 150MPH design standard and costs would have been less for the majority of basic traffic signs.

The $280 per assembly hasn't been the cost since the upgrade was made. If you find a subcontractor quoting that amount, they are either losing money on each assembly or they are not installing per the design standard.

Accordingly, we believe our bid price to be accurate.

The Experience You Need... The Honesty You Expect.

Note #5: The material cost for the specified item justifies the bid price. We believe our bid price to be accurate.

Note #6: The material cost for the specified item justifies the bid price. We believe our bid price to be accurate.

I trust that this narrative will be satisfactory. If any additional information is required, please direct your inquiries to Ed Broccoli and me.

Respectfully,
