Education Advisory Committee - Questions*

1. There are many challenges in education right now. Many schools don't have enough funding, and that makes it hard for teachers to give every student what they need to succeed. There is also a major teacher shortage, and teachers often have to use their own money for supplies or take on extra work. On top of that, some schools have more resources than others, which isn't fair. I think it is really important that all schools get the support they need, no matter what neighborhood they live in.
2. My vision is to make sure every student has a fair chance to succeed. That means all schools should be well-funded and have access to the same opportunities. I want to help create a system where students and teachers are supported, and where everyone feels like their education matters.
3. I believe the Education Advisory Committee is here to bring people together to talk about what's going on in our schools and how we can improve things. It's a chance for students, parents, educators and city leaders to work as a team to share ideas that can help make education better for everyone
4. Since the committee only meets once a month, we have to make that time count. I think it is important for each meeting to have a clear plan and focus on what's most important. We should remain on topic in order to come up with real ways to make a difference.
5. The committee can measure success by looking at the goals we set and seeing if our ideas actually lead to change. If we are working together, listening to each other, and making things better for student and teachers, then we're doing our job. .
