African American Advisory Council - Questions*

The greatest challenge currently facing the African American community in Hollywood is the need for equitable access to quality education and economic opportunities. While progress has been made, disparities in academic achievement, workforce readiness, and access to resources continue to impact long-term stability and growth. Addressing these gaps through targeted educational support, mentorship, and community-driven initiatives remains essential.

I have been able to dedicate approximately 8–12 hours per month to support AAAC and EAC initiatives. I am committed to using this time consistently and effectively to contribute to programs, attend meetings, and assist in initiatives that positively impact the community.

My strongest area of expertise is in Education. As an educator and ESE specialist, I bring experience in differentiated instruction, student engagement, and data-driven practices to support diverse learners. I also have valuable insight into Cultural Awareness, particularly in creating inclusive environments that empower students from all backgrounds.

I am most passionate about Education and Cultural Awareness. I believe education is the foundation for opportunity and long-term success, and cultural awareness ensures that students and community members feel seen, respected, and valued.

Together, these areas create a powerful pathway for meaningful and lasting change.

My life experiences have strongly influenced my commitment to volunteerism. Transitioning from a long career in the court system to education allowed me to see firsthand the importance of early intervention, mentorship, and guidance. Working with youth, particularly those facing academic and social challenges, has motivated me to give back and be part of solutions that uplift individuals and strengthen the community as a whole.
