

Jason Newton, M.A., MLIS joined SEARCH in 2019 as an Architectural Historian with more than 10 years of experience in cultural resource management and architectural history. He is responsible for documenting and evaluating the National Register of Historic Places (NRHP) eligibility of historic resources. Mr. Newton received his bachelor's degree in History from Tarleton State University in 2004 and his master's degree in History in 2007 from Texas State University. His focus was on late Roman and Medieval Europe, and he also completed a cognate in Anthropology while in the program. In 2015, Mr. Newton also completed a second master's degree in Library and Information Science from the University of South Florida. He began his work in cultural resource management by working in archaeology in Florida, Texas, and Louisiana, but soon made the switch to architectural history, focusing specifically on Florida. He has since worked on numerous cultural resource assessment survey (CRAS) reports, Determination of Effects (DOE) documents, and Historic American Buildings Survey (HABS)/Historic American Engineering Record (HAER) documentation packages, having completed thousands of Florida Master Site File (FMSF) forms for historic resources throughout Florida.

And: Jason has a passion for live music and can be found listening to rock bands at numerous live music venues and music festivals throughout the year.
