Explanation:

The City of Hollywood is providing a series of four workshops that emphasize community building principles and strategies, project planning, organizational leadership and management practices, as well as personal leadership skills. The final session will be held on April 27, 2019 at the Boulevard Heights Community Center at 6770 Garfield St., in Hollywood, from 9:30 AM - 12:30 PM.

The first three sessions have been attended by 150 participants including civic and neighborhood association members, students, teachers, community leaders, resident volunteers, community-based organization staff, business owners, local government staff, and municipal elected officials.

This series has been led by Patrick Knight, an international speaker and trainer. Patrick has taught more than 350 seminars in twenty-five different states and thirty other countries. He has authored numerous leadership articles and manuals. In 2012, Patrick had a book published called: Blessed to Survive - The Thanksgiving Day Massacre, which details his triumph over tragedy after falling victim to one of the worst mass shootings in South Florida history.
